SUPERIOR COURT

The June term of Oxford Superior Court opened at South Paris on Tuesday of last week. Justice George L. Emery presiding.

Traverse jurors were empanelled as follows:
Harriet Abbott, Fryeburg
Ruth Bolster, Paris
E. C. Davis, Mexico
Fred Eastman, Stow
Clarence E. Fryeburg
Leslie H. Flint, Norway
Frank O. Haines, Rumford
Eva Packard, Canton
Hartley Pendexter, Hiram
Maude O'Reilly, Bethel
Susan Stearns, Stowham
Carl C. Virgin, Mexico
Supernumeraries: Emma Cummings, Paris and D. A. Gable, Bethel.

The first case was a trover action brought by Mrs. Bernice Eastman of Stow against Lillian L. Clark of Hiram, to collect $740 for lumber removed from property owned by her. The trial ended suddenly Tuesday afternoon when Justice Emery declared the case a non suit. There was no evidence of unlawful conversion by Clark the defendant. The defendant said that the lumber was cut with the consent of Mrs. Eastman and he purchased it in the open market.

Raymond Boston of Rumford was charged with manslaughter, being driver of a car in which Miss Irene Perry of Rumford and John MacPherson, Jr. of Mexico were riding at the time of an accident May 21. Mr. MacPherson was instantly killed and Miss Perry died a few days later. Justice Emery ordered that a verdict of not guilty be returned by the jury on the grounds of a defect in the indictment.

Frank Dunning of Norway was charged with larceny by false pretenses. He was charged with receiving goods in false pretenses was suspended and he was placed on probation for a year.

M. A. Tardif of Lee was sentenced to serve nine months for obtaining by false pretenses. He admitted cashing checks to the amount of about $20 without funds in the bank.

C. W. Ruggate of Milton also pleaded guilty to cheating and received a six months jail sentence. He gave a $10 check and did not know until several days later that there were not enough funds to cover it.

Homer Truman of Norway pleaded guilty to the larceny of a beaver and was sentenced to serve three months in jail.

THOMAS GREEN BUYS
SNOW FALLS PROPERTY

It was announced today that H. N. Bragdon has sold his property at Snow Falls to Thomas Green of Locke Mills. It is understood that Mr. Green will open the overnight camps at once and plans to make improvements in the place. The Snow Falls Inn, which has been operated in connection with the camps, was burned March 22.

BETHEL VOTES $6500 FOR PUMPER PURCHASE

Opposition to the purchase of a pumper for fire protection was not very much in evidence at the special town meeting last Saturday afternoon. Although there was, and still is, more or less muttering against the action of the hundred voters, more or less, who assembled there was but one "no" to indicate that the desire of the townspeople was anything but unanimous.

The meeting was called to order by Town Clerk Alice J. Brooks. Gerard S. Williams was at once chosen Moderator, sworn in, and the first article of the warrant taken up. On the suggestion of E. E. Bennett the committee appointed in March was called upon and Robert Hastings, chairman, reported their activities in ascertaining the possibilities for the use of new equipment locally and the various types of pumping equipment offered as well as the apparatus now in use by towns comparable to Bethel.

Mr. Hastings told of three classes of equipment. First the "forestry type," weighing less than 200 pounds, with a capacity of from 75 to 150 gallons a minute and using inch and a half hose. Next was a truck outfit costing about $2500 with a large booster tank, ladder, etc. This would be an assembled job and could be placed on almost any standard truck. The best outfit and the one that the committee favored was one of several standard makes of pumper and equipment. This includes a heavy high powered engine with dual ignition, made especially for this kind of work with pump and all equipment of high grade. The cost of this is about $5700 or $5800 and they advised the purchase of 1000 feet of hose, making a total cost of about $6500.

On the motion of E. E. Russell the recommendations of the committee were accepted and J. P. Butts moved that $6500 be raised which was unanimously voted. The advice of the selectmen was asked in regard to financing the deal and E. P. Blaine chairman recommended that $1300 be raised each year, 1937 it being an increase in the tax rate of one mill each year. The town voted to do this.

It was decided to leave the arrangements for the maintenance of the pumper and the authority to purchase in the hands of the selectmen. This was a brilliant example of an efficient new outfit will be taken care of by the selectmen.

DOCTORS OF LUNG HELD AT BETHEL INN LAST FRIDAY

There were some attending doctors and their wives from Mexico and northern New Hampshire at the meeting of the Andersons at Bethel Inn last Friday afternoon and evening. Thompson gave a lecture on "Lung Disease" and "Lung Cancer" and "Lung Inflammation" by Leonard and "Obesity".

EAST BETHEL HOME SAVED FROM FIRE

Only prompt action, Sunday afternoon on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Kimball saved the home of Alfred Curtis from being destroyed. As they drove by they noticed smoke pouring from the windows and found a fire at home. Mrs. Kimball went for help while Mr. Kimball and another passerby broke in and carried water to put it out. A crowd gathered and soon every trace of fire was out. It seemed the chimney burned out the day before and the chimney getting heated through set fire to laths and timbers around it burning all the laths off behind the stove and doing some damage above that.

BETHEL DOWS TO BUCKFIELD

By R. E. D.

Wednesday night saw the hard-fought Buckfield aggregation take the local team into camp to the tune of 13 to 7.

In a game featured by the powerful bats of Buckfield and the new fielding of Bethel the fans saw an inspiring local rally in the eighth inning superseded by a more potent one by the visitors in the ninth. The Bethel boys were outclassed in this contest by the smooth work of the opposing nine. Fifteen hits combined with 12 errors by the locals gave Buckfield their total of 13. The Bethel made 10 hits but poor running hurt her chances in several instances.

Russell, cleanup man for Buckfield, and her starting pitcher, Rowe, are the big stickers for the visit. While Quimby had plenty of power in his bat with three hits, including a double and a homer, Hood had a three-bagger and was deprived of a home run because of a collision with the umpire.

For a time in the eighth it looked though Bethel was going to make a game of it. Trailing 8 to 3 the locals went in and scored four runs on six hits and a base on balls. —Continued on Page Eight—

PRIMARIES FAVOR BARROWS-OLIVER

By R. E. D.

In the primary election Monday Lewis O. Barrows received the Republican nomination for Governor with a lead of about 19,000 over Blin W. Page. In the nine-cornered fight for Congressman, James C. Oliver had over 12,500, leading his nearest opponent, Ronald Bridges, by over 5,000. Oliver's Townsendsite support and the large field of candidates were in his favor. Although Oliver won the Republican nomination in the district, Donald Partridge of Norway led him in the County by over 800 votes. The Democratic nominations for U. S. Senator and Governor were uncontested, while for the congressional seat Hamlin has a slight lead over Connolly. Complete tabulated County returns will be found on page five.

They rewrote language essays they had written previously and learned them. Both delivered their parts well in spite of the short time given them.

A truck load of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Haakon Olson of North Newry went from here Friday evening and serenaded them at their home in Newry. Several others went in cars. Games were enjoyed and refreshments of cake and root beer were sent down by Mrs. Ole Olson. The serenaders carried candy. ... and these owners are right, as we believe you will agree when you consider the following exclusive Chevrolet features:

Think of the extra dollar value in one great Chevrolet feature alone—NEW PERFECTED HYDRAULIC BRAKES! These are the safest and smoothest brakes ever developed—always equalized—always dependable.

There is also plenty of extra value in Chevrolet's SOLID STEEL one-piece TURBETOP. It puts the safety of solid, seamless steel over your head—is smarter looking—and keeps passengers cooler in summer.

Another feature that will be worth a great deal to you is Chevrolet's IMPROVED KNEE-ACTION GLIDING RIDE. It smooths away bumps and holes assures perfect comfort for both front and back seat passengers—is recognized everywhere as the world's smoothest, safest ride.

Also extremely valuable, also exclusive to this one low-priced car, is GENUINE FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION. It enables you to keep refreshing breezes on hot days—eliminate drafts—prevent clouding of the windshield in bad weather.

The extra value in Chevrolet cars is still higher when you consider the advantages of SHOCK-PROOF STEERING. It eliminates steering wheel vibration, protects your hands and arms from constant shock, makes driving easier than ever before.

And, finally, there is Chevrolet's HIGH-COMPRESSION VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE. ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner
Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems
Inseparable from Local Welfare.

By the time this is read the presidential campaign will be underway in earnest. The Democrats will have given Franklin Delano Roosevelt their formal blessing, and sent him in search of a second term in the White House. The Republicans will have nominated a candidate, drawn on a platform, and started their attempt to return the country to the aegis of the elephant.

There will be many issues in the current campaign, and the bewildered voter will be submitted to a vast amount of oratory on questions of the hour between now and November. One of those issues, however, will be stressed over and over again, and it may be the issue that will decide the contest. That issue is, "New Deal Spending."

The last two congresses—sitting through four years—have broken
all previous records in spending.
As a matter of fact, they have not far exceeded any previous congresses in authorizing appropriations that comparison is futile.
With few exceptions—of which the Bonus Bill passed over a presidential veto is the most important—these appropriations have been authorized at the express request of the Chief Executive.

During the four years tenure of the two congresses, appropriations have totaled a little less than $32,000,000,000. This amounts to eight billion dollars more than was appropriated by all the congresses sitting from the time of President Washington (1789) to the time of President Wilson (1913). In the interim between Washington and Wilson, the country became involved in several wars (War of 1812, Civil War, Spanish American War, Mexican War) but the sum of $24,000,000,000 was sufficient to keep the federal government during the 116 years represented. According to the United States News,
the cost of all wars fought in that period was less than the cost of a single year's federal government—
the $34,000,000,000 unemployment relief act.

The facts, and they are not admitted here, are on an argument for a reduction of the federal expenditure. But they will prove as a rule for the rest of the world that the federal government is not a necessary evil.

It is true that the federal government is not a necessary evil. It is true that the federal government is not a necessary evil. It is true that the federal government is not a necessary evil. It is true that the federal government is not a necessary evil.

necessary to unleash an unprecedented number of Federal dollars. If the crisis were to be met. He will argue that the measure of industrial recovery so far gained is largely the result of his policies,
and that the money paid out to help farmers, the unemployed, the unemployables, and the indigent has produced such fine results that every dollar of it is justified. He will say that the course he pursued was inevitable and unavoidable.

The opposition will argue that the vast volume of spending, reflected as it is in rising taxes, and an astounding Federal debt which must create still more taxes in the future, is holding back industry.
It will point out that the employment problem is approximately as serious today as it was three years ago. It will say that the WPA, PWA, Resettlement Administration,
AAA, and other emergency bureaus have wasted millions. It will demand rigid Federal retrenchment, and a program looking to the earliest possible balancing of the distorted budget.

The two viewpoints represented are irreconcilable—and that may not be good for the country, but it is the stuff of which first-class political campaigns are made. Get your radio order, attune your ear to antagonistic statistics—and see if you can survive the oratory of the next five months without developing mental hallucinations.

Ordinarily at this time of year, seasonal decline occurs in the industrial index. This year, no such decline has appeared, on the basis of the latest authoritative statistics.
The best indexes have hardly varied
a fraction of a point in late weeks, and are tenaciously holding the gains made in 1935 and the first quarter of 1936.

Every major industry is well ahead of the same period of last year, with a single exception. The exception is life insurance, whose sales show a drop of about 15%.
Automobile sales are up more than 30%, construction up almost 100%.
Electrical output, one of the best barometers of all, up 12%. Railroad freight loadings are climbing, and by far the best since depression set in.

The business outlook is also encouraging. No net backs are anti-

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Canadian Premier Resigns

Ottawa, Can. — A few days ago in London, the veteran Labor leader, J. H. Thomas, resigned as Secretary of State for the Colonies because he stood accused of releasing budget information in advance of publication. The same strict code is reflected in the resignation of Louis A. Taschereau as Premier of Quebec. Unable to account for the alleged misapplication of $15,000, his brother Antoine, accountant for the Legislature, refunded the amount and resigned. His more prominent brother promptly threw up his sixteen years' Premiership. League Sanctions failed.

London, Eng. — Addressing the 1900 Club, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, admitted the complete breakdown of League of Nations sanctions against Italy because of the Ethiopian invasion. The sanctions policies, he said "failed to prevent the war, failed to end the war, failed to save the victim of aggression."

HOLC Ends Home Loans

Washington, D. C. — After lending $3,061,893,559 to 1,016,142 distressed home owners since June 13, 1933 the Home Owners Loan Corporation ends all lending activities and now enters upon the 15-year task of collecting principal and interest. More than 870,500 applications were disallowed; thus far 14,852 loans have been foreclosed.

Weather Controls Composer

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Bavaria — Celebrating his 73d birthday, Richard Strauss, the composer, promised to finish two new one-act operas if Germany has a warm summer. "Cherrie," he explained "do not blossom in winter, nor do musical ideas come readily when nature is bleak and cold. I usually compose from spring to autumn, then write out and polish the detailed scores in winter."

Pointers For Plays

Abingdon, Va. — The Barter Theatre, only one of its kind in the world, is open for its fifth season. Neighboring farmers exchange eggs, milk, farm produce for seats; actors play for their board and keep. The first summer found the company at the end of the season with a surplus of two barrels of jelly, 5 hams and $4.50. Successive years improved the cash position until it reached a peak of $60. This season a traveling company will come on the road in Eastern Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia. Admission is 25 cents for its equivalent in staples.

Globe Circling Post

New York City — On the last lap of a trip around the world in 80 days, sponsored by a Paris newspaper, Jean Tardieu, French post found time to spend three days here before catching a fast train. He is emulating Phileas Fogg the Jules Verne hero of "Around the World in 80 Days." In Gotham he found hurricane the most extraordinary theatrical feat.

Protestants Walk Out

Philadelphia, Pa. — A group of three Protestant ministers have been expelled from the city of Philadelphia for refusing to take the oath of loyalty to the United States government. The ministers are: Rev. Dr. J. H. G. Smith, Rev. Dr. J. H. G. Smith, and Rev. Dr. J. H. G. Smith.

Pope Blesses Peaceful

New York City — Catholicism has been used almost everywhere by the forces of Pope Pius XI to take a strong stand against war and violence. The Christian Century declares: "As a moral force on the side of peace, the Vatican has fallen flat." In explanation, The Tablet, influential English Catholic paper, says "as the shepherd of all the faithful, His Holiness has to do justice to them all and to refrain from particular indictments of individual acts in the always largely immoral stream of international events."

Who murdered Mike Kelly?" the question was being asked from every news-stand in New York.

Underneath it, in huge headlines, the answer was given, and accused. In the circles, the story is referred to as "the big beat": who murdered Mike Kelly? "Do police know?" "Have they always known?" "And has this knowledge been pigeon-holed, while an agent man was held for the one, because the real murderer was too much about Tammany Hall?"

The Globe replied to these queries in a series of denunciatory comments, labeled "proofed by a disinterested sprinkling of the usual 'it is said' and 'who is said to be.'" Luis Morano owned the house at Jefferson street. He bought it in 1929, and lived there alone, with colored servants, until 1931, when he purchased a stock farm at Morrisstown, N. J. The house remained vacant, and, last January, Morano sold it to the Progressive Realty company for $12,000.

In March, when the Progressive company transferred most of Jefferson street to the city for a so-called boulevard, the value of the same property was set at $55,000. The Civic association alleged that Progressive company was merely a stalking horse for Boss Kelly, condemnation proceedings were instituted before Judge Curtis Abidge, whose decision was filed an hour after Kelly was found dead, his skull fractured by a blow in a heavy cut-glass decanter.

On the day of the murder, a man, believed to be Morano, telephoned the Globe that he could establish Kelly's connection with the Progressive company. An appointment was made for that night. The man did not appear.

But at eight o'clock—two hours a half earlier—Kelly went to the Coconut Bar. He is said to have had with him two henchmen, a paper of some sort, with which he threatened Morano. Kelly said that an effort was made to his pocket of this document, it was still in his possession when he left the Coconut Bar. When Kelly's body was found, the paper had vanished. All this has always been known to police. Kelly was killed between one and two o'clock in the morning.

At one o'clock, Morano telephoned his attorney that he was going into his car to drive to town. But the police know, have always known that Morano's car was still in front of the Coconut Bar three hours later. They know, and have always known that a new traffic cop gave the chauffeur a summons at that time, and that the two men went into the Bar together to find Morano. He was not there, and the doorman said he had not been there since shortly after one o'clock.

"Where was Morano? The police know, or should know that he was the occupant of a taxicab that dashed out of Sixteenth street—where Kelly lived and was then lying dead—at two o'clock the morning of the murder. Half a block from Kelly's house, the taxi struck and killed a woman, Mrs. Theodore Jaxon, of 53 Washington square. The number of that taxi is, or should be known to the police. Its driver is, or should be known to the police. He is George Mundelein of 861 Cass street, the Bronx.

"Morano hired the cab at Sixteenth street and Sixth avenue, and told Mundelein to take him to the Coconut Bar. When the accident threatened to identify him, he changed his mind, and ordered the driver to 'keep on going.' He said then that he had to catch a 2:12 train at the Pennsylvania station.

"Whether or not Morano caught that train, he was not seen again until late the next evening, when he reappeared at the Coconut Bar with his right wrist heavily bandaged. Morano told the doorman he had sprained the wrist playing with one of the horses on his stock farm. But Morano was not anywhere near that farm the night of the Kelly murder, or the day following.

"Most of these facts are, or should be known to the police. Morano is still at liberty. No effort has been made to detain him as a material witness. For more than two months, another man has been locked in the Tombs, under indictment for this murder. If the police haven't known of Morano's connection with the case, they have been grossly and criminally negligent. If they have known, they have been grossly and criminally corrupt.

"In either event, the public awaits their next move."

A considerable part of that public waited in the Coconut Bar, or in front of it.

And, at seven o'clock that night, Morano was "still at liberty." The police hadn't arrested him—in spite of the Globe, and Winslow's message to Hambridge—nor manifested the least interest in his whereabouts. The first show at the Bar was beginning when Tim Laugherty arrived with "Big Bill" Devine.

Both were in plain clothes, and attracted no attention.

"Where's the boss?" Tim asked one of the head waiters.

"Upstairs—on the balcony. He's having his dinner."

He was.

Whether Morano counted too much on his pull, or whether he realized the impossibility of escape, no one ever knew. The platinum blonde had urged him to clear out.

"What for?" he asked.

"Then he said, 'Even in America, you can't get away with murder forever—not forever, you can't,' she testified later.

"I'm tired of the whole business," he said. "We might as well have it over."

What Morano meant by that was soon evident.

"He'd been drinkin' all after-noon," the platinum blonde testified. "First time I'd ever seen him squiffy."

It was buyers' night at the Coconut Bar. The street floor was so crowded that the detectives had trouble reaching the stairs.

From what Morano called "the mezzanine," operators revolving multi-hued gelatine wheels in front of spot-lights, and gentlemen in paper caps emptied cornucopias. The din was incredible, and the air full of smoke, and confetti, and bright-colored streamers.

Tim walked into Morano's little dining room.

"Hello, Luis! They want to talk to you at headquarters," Tim said. Luis refilled his glass.

Directly beneath him, 20 drunken voices were bawling a chorus:

"Let me be—That's all I'm askin' you. Can't you see? That's all I'm askin' you. Take your hand from off'n my hips. Take your mouth away from my lips. Let me be. That's what I'm tellin' you—"

"I guess you better come along, Luis."

Morano rose. "I'm not going," he said. "No?" "No."

"Because why?"

"Because I don't like your boardin' house. I don't like that, easy chair you got waiting for me. If you're gonna croak me, you might as well do it right here."

"Nobody don't want to croak you," Tim argued. "What's the use making trouble, Luis?"

For answer, Morano gave him the contents of the glass of champagne in the eyes.

"Big Bill" Devine seized Morano's right arm.

And Morano struck with his left—a vicious jab that sent Devine back against an iron pillar.

Only for an instant, however. As Luis came forward, "Big Bill" caught him straight on the chin. It was a terrific blow. It sent Mo-rano spinning against his own chair, and then, over that, through the flimsy railing, and down among the dancers, 15 feet below.

"Let me be—that's all I'm askin' you," came voices, bawling the chorus.

And then a babel of voices. Screams, cries, shouts for help. The band was still playing when a "bouncer" lifted the boss' shoulders. He was bleeding at the mouth, and stone dead.
